There was a principal that lived at a school,
He had so many students , he didn't know what to do.
There were Freshman and Sophomores,
And Juniors and Seniors too.

There were some who worked and some who played
And some who made mischief all through the day.
There were those who recorded these awsome deeds.
Here they are pictured against loud cries and pleas.

Their books are battered and so are their brains,
But we hope that they have made some academic gains.
They get up in the morning, early to rise,
Eating breakfast and wiping sleep from their eyes.

Next is to classes, to study, to do.
"Your Bible test is due!
"How do they go?" Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus too.
I don't remember, do you?

And then to work, how lousy we feel.
Dishes, potatoes and apples to peel.
Shoveling and firing
The boys work with zeal.

After supper there's worship and study
As each student helps his Buddy.
Asleep at last and all tucked in,
Their mischief showing--in each of their grins.

Rick,
Hope you have a great summer & have lots of fun remembering
the good times we've had.
Be good
